

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS: CERTIFICATION OF COMPETENCIES OF INDIGENOUS KNOWLEDGE PRACTITIONERS IN THE INYANGA, ISANGOMA AND UMBELETHISI CATEGORIES UNDER THE RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING PILOT PROGRAMME – KWAZULU-NATAL

Certification of competencies of IK Practitioners in KwaZulu-Natal Province in the three categories of Inyanga, Isangoma and Umbelethisi. The pilot programme for KwaZulu-Natal in eThekweni metro, Zululand, Mkhanyakude and Harry Gwala Districts municipalities is expected to run from March to April 2022.

Application Information

Applications for the certification of competencies of IK practitioners in the inyanga, isangoma and umbelethisi categories will open on 1 February 2022 and close on 28 February 2022. Application forms can be obtained from and submitted at (COGTA DISTRICT OFFICES). Further information can be obtained from Ms Nompilo Myende at Myenden3@ukzn.ac.za or 0312607328.

Required Documentation to Support Applications

Submissions must include the following:

- A completed application form.
- A reference letter indicating community leadership/authority.
- A reference letter indicating where the applicant received his/her training OR a sworn affidavit of training received, indicating the name of gobela/mentor, date, area and place of training.
- A reference letter from the applicant's organisation of choice.
- A short curriculum vitae (CV).

Pre-Assessment Screening

The RPL Secretariat will pre-screen the applications, and applicants will be requested to provide any outstanding information or documentation. The KZN RPL Pilot Steering Committee will consider the completed applications and invite applicants for interview assessments.

Scope of Certification Assessment

Applicants will be certified on their knowledge and skills in the category (inyanga, isangoma or umbelethisi) for which they have applied. The certification will be done through an interview assessment. The certification is designed to pilot a certification model for graduated practitioners to move towards becoming recognized professionals within their categories of practice once the system has been endorsed for full national rollout in accordance with the IK Act and its Regulations. The KZN RPL Pilot Steering Committee will determine whether a candidate has met the desired competency as a traditional health practitioner in the relevant category following the interview assessment. The certification criteria relate to the technical, core and functional competency areas of each category, and applicants are expected to demonstrate their knowledge, skills and experience in the relevant category.

Technical competencies:

- Knowledge of Nguni healing systems and competencies (for example, norms and standards inherent in the system).
- Track record (minimum of three years' practical experience in the field) - expert knowledge in a particular field and understanding of one additional discipline (i.e. inyanga, isangoma or umbelethisi).
- A good understanding of other ethnic health systems in South Africa.

Core competencies:

- Competencies (scope of knowledge, ethics, professionalism, accountability, problem solving) unique to the category applied for.
- Understanding of the laws of the country, particularly as these relate to traditional health practice.
- Good standing in the applicant's organisation of choice or in the community where he/she lives.

Functional competencies:

- Pervasive or soft skills (interpersonal skills, leadership skills, communication skills) unique to or the category applied for

NB: Correspondence will be limited to shortlisted candidates.
